

Antarctica Bingo!

What penguin is this?
Considered one of the true
Antarctic penguins and the smallest Antarctic penguin.
Also, Jessica's favorite!

98% of the Antarctic continent is covered by this. What is it?

This is what fully protects Antarctica so 46 countries can do science peacefully.

© British Antarctic Survey - www.photo.antarctica.ac.uk

A type of plant life in Antarctica.
What is this called?

A fish that some penguins,
whales, and seals eat!

This is one type of movement people use to travel on water to land. What is it?

The majority of people that travel to Antarctica are considered to be?

What hemisphere is Antarctica in? This is also the only hemisphere penguins live in.

This is another type of movement people use to get around on the Antarctic continent. What is it?

What whale is this? Each tail is different and unique for an individual whale.

What penguin is this?
Considered one of the true
Antarctic penguins and the only penguin that breeds during the winter! The largest penguin species.

Most people think this animal lives in Antarctica. But that is incorrect! This animal lives in the Arctic! What is this animal?

How many United States base stations are in Antarctica?

One of the two main countries you will have to stop in before heading to Antarctica by ship or by plane. What is the country?

What seal is this? This seal lives farthest south than any other mammal! Not a predator of penguins and are often described as being fat.

